February 11th- February 15th

Classroom Updates:

Happy Monday! It seems like it has been forever since we have had a full day of school especially on a Monday. Hopefully it can last.

This will be another busy week at HRS.

Tomorrow (February 12th) we will have an early release at 12:45. Students can come out of uniform on that day. Instead of bringing something in that day to be out of uniform they are going to write a prayer to offer at mass on Friday. You can help them think of ideas at home tonight.

On Thursday we will be having a class party to celebrate Valentine's Day! Students are welcome to bring in Valentines to share with their friends and classmates. During this party we will pass out Valentines and do some other activities. It will start around 1:30 on Thursday afternoon. On Valentine's day students can wear red or pink (Valentine's Day colors) to come out of uniform. Addie will be in charge of snack for the party and Leelynn will be in charge of beverage.

Conferences are coming up in a little over a week. This time for conferences we are trying something different and scheduling all conferences. A bright pink sheet went home last week with information and was supposed to be returned today. If you haven't returned it please send it back ASAP.

Today we started a new read aloud. We are reading How to Train A Dragon. I am not sure who is more excited about this read aloud the kids or myself. We are enjoying the book so far and are all excited to watch the movie.

What are we learning?

Reading- I can answer questions about a story that I read.
